The Chemetal Sample Display Box is Easy to Update!

One issue we've had with architectural binders in the past is updating. A depleted box is a good thing, it means people are using it. But it's important to get new samples in place, and this box makes it easy to replace chain sets, add 4 x 6's or request an entirely new Chemetal Sample Display Box.

A special place for distributor info.

Each Chemetal Sample Display Box comes with a clear business card holder for placement on the right box front. Within this clear pocket is the only authorized location where distributors are allowed to display their contact information on the Sample Box. Distributors can still individually label the back of 4"x 6" samples if they choose. If stickers are placed in a non-authorized location on the box, the Sample Box will be removed and replaced with one without any distributor info, and the distributor will be charged for the full cost of the Sample Box.

The Expense to your Distributor Sample Budget.

The cost of the Chemetal Sample Display Box is $200.00. This amount is applied against your annual Distributor Sample Budget. Once registered, it only counts as $140.00 against your Distributor Sample Budget. We encourage registration, and will likely withhold boxes from those who don't register them. Distributors who put their contact info or stickers in a location other than the authorized clear business card holder (see above) will be charged $140.00 against their sample budget.
